The screenshot shows the 'Log' interface in Tabroom. The main content area is a table with columns: Who, What, When, Detail. The sidebar on the right contains a 'Change logs:' section with the following options: Show Registration Changes, Entry Drops (Print), Conflicts (Access), Entry Moves (Print), Judge Moves (Print), Tabulation, and Strike Cards. Below this is a 'Date range' section with 'From' (8/11/2022 @ 12:00 AM) and 'To' (8/18/2022 @ 11:59 PM) fields, and a 'Go' button.

Tabroom keeps a log of most of the changes you make to your tournament as they happen, such as entry drops or pairing a round. The "Change Log" menu option lets you view these logs, which can make it easier to track down when something happened or who made a particular change.

First, you should set a date range on the sidebar - it's usually helpful to include a little extra on each side of your range, just in case you were wrong about the time.

Then, choose which log you want to view, including Entry/Judge drops or moves, or the full tabulation log.
